

TELL SALESFORCE: DROP THE CBP CONTRACT

Salesforce powers the Unified Immigration Portal, which enables information sharing between ICE, CBP (Customs Border Protection), and other enforcement agencies. The system uses AI to facilitate the detentions and deportations tearing our communities apart. This contract is worth less than 0.1% of Salesforce's annual revenue and dropping it will not impact Salesforce's bottom line.

Tell Salesforce: Drop the CBP contract.

No tech for state violence.

HERE'S WHAT YOU CAN DO

Salesforce Employees: Talk to your leaders and email Suzanne DiBianca, Executive Vice President & Chief Impact Officer: "No tech for state violence. Drop the CBP Contract." Then share this flyer with your team, tape it to the fridge, slack it, make some noise!

Salesforce Users: Reach out to your Salesforce contact and tell them to drop CBP or risk losing your business. Find template emails at snatchforce.tech

ABDUCTED USING SALESFORCE TECH

Willian Gimenez

Willian is a day laborer and asylum seeker from Venezuela living in Chicago. He is an outspoken worker's rights advocate and a plaintiff in a lawsuit alleging violence by off-duty Chicago police at Home Depot. On September 12th, ICE agents abducted Willian outside a barbershop. His wife collapsed at the scene. ICE refuses to disclose his location, denying his attorneys access.
