

TELL SALESFORCE: DROP THE CBP CONTRACT

Salesforce powers the Unified Immigration Portal, which enables information sharing between ICE, CBP (Customs Border Protection), and other enforcement agencies. The system uses AI to facilitate the detentions and deportations tearing our communities apart. This contract is worth less than 0.1% of Salesforce's annual revenue and dropping it will not impact Salesforce's bottom line.

Tell Salesforce: Drop the CBP contract.

No tech for state violence.

HERE'S WHAT YOU CAN DO

Salesforce Employees: Talk to your leaders and email Suzanne DiBianca, Executive Vice President & Chief Impact Officer: "No tech for state violence. Drop the CBP Contract." Then share this flyer with your team, tape it to the fridge, slack it, make some noise!

Salesforce Users: Reach out to your Salesforce contact and tell them to drop CBP or risk losing your business. Find template emails at snatchforce.tech

Jorge Cruz

Jorge is a father of four who came to the U.S. from Mexico City at age 5. A green card holder married to a U.S. citizen since 2014, Jorge became integral to LA's arts scene and built "Del Mar Fruits and More" into a thriving business with 25 food carts. On August 27, 2025, ICE agents arrested him as he and his wife returned from dropping their children off at school.
