

TELL SALESFORCE: DROP THE CBP CONTRACT

Salesforce powers the Unified Immigration Portal, which enables information sharing between ICE, CBP (Customs Border Protection), and other enforcement agencies. The system uses AI to facilitate the detentions and deportations tearing our communities apart. This contract is worth less than 0.1% of Salesforce's annual revenue and dropping it will not impact Salesforce's bottom line.

Tell Salesforce: Drop the CBP contract.

No tech for state violence.

HERE'S WHAT YOU CAN DO

Salesforce Employees: Talk to your leaders and email Suzanne DiBianca, Executive Vice President & Chief Impact Officer: "No tech for state violence. Drop the CBP Contract." Then share this flyer with your team, tape it to the fridge, slack it, make some noise!

Salesforce Users: Reach out to your Salesforce contact and tell them to drop CBP or risk losing your business. Find template emails at snatchforce.tech

Barbara Gomes Marques May

Barbara is a 38-year-old filmmaker who is married to a U.S. citizen. During a green card interview in September 2025, ICE agents asked Barbara to step away to copy her passport, separating her from her attorney and arrested her. Barbara was shackled hand, foot, and waist while an agent laughed and took a selfie. ICE secretly transferred her to Arizona.
